CUCAMONGA
. . . area news
By Cathy Putman

Out of the past comes an intriguing story told to me by Edwin Motsinger, one time owner of the John Raines house built for him in 1856. Bought by Mr. Motsinger from the Cucamonga Water Company in 1918.

During the thirty years Edwin Motsinger lived in the old house, he worked at restoring it as near as he could to its original condition. Of course there were other things to do besides restoring an old home. So in the spring of 1919 Mr. Motsinger put in the first five acres of lemon trees, followed by acres of very good stock. I was told that much of the stock he budded himself, on the best root stock he could buy.

These trees are still living and bearing. Having stood up to over a hundred years of time and the changes of many owners, the old house is still firm and sound with much of its original dignity still visible.

The new owners Mrs. B.C. and Dr. Stevens tell me it is their plans to furnish and keep the house as near as possible to the original design and still remain comfortable.

Our salute to the Stevens family for helping to preserve the old house Casa de Rancho Cucamonga for posterity.

Cucamonga Postmaster Anthony Blatnick tells us that there are still some of the Mercury stamps, comemorating the flight of John Glenn Astronaut available. So you stamp collectors better hurry down if you plan to put away numbered blocks of four.

Heard a rumor that there was an exhibit of some kind at the library, so gathered up all my overdue books and change and hurried down. Helen Kilmurry branch Librarian proudly showed me a collection of Puppets, made by Naomi Kosters fourth grade students at Central School. Nice going Mrs. Koster.

FRIENDLY CUCAMONGA WELCOMES:

Mr. & Mrs. Arthur Keelan, who moved from San Pedro to Cucamonga a month ago. A year ago they bought the Cucamonga Ranch at 7477 Ramona Ave., they hired a manager for the year giving Mr. Keelan time to sell the furniture store he had owned and operated for several years in San Pedro.

Mrs. Keelan tells me they are very glad to have moved here, they like the weather and appreciate not having smog.

We are looking forward to meeting you and having you join the community in its service endeavors, Mr. & Mrs. Keelan.

The Cucamonga Hardware at 9710 Foothill Blvd in Cucamonga, owned by Mr. & Mrs. John Martin was purchased by Mr. & Mrs. Jerald A. Jones and associate L.M. Jones of Glendora. Mr. Jones and wife Janis and son Kevin age 4 originally moved to California from Michigan. They now reside in Etiwanda. According to Mr. Jones there will be no drastic changes made in the operation of the hardware, it will be carried on much as the previous owner did.

Ask Mr. John Martin what his plans were now he no longer had the responsibility of the hardware, he said as soon as he could get ready and the weather was warmer, he and Mrs. Martin were heading for the Colorado River for an extended fishing trip. Their many friends will miss them and we hope they will return here to live.

So Mr. & Mrs. Arthur Keelan, Mr. & Mrs. Jerald A. Jones and son Kevin, Friendly Cucamonga welcomes you, and you Mr. & Mrs. John Martin please hurry back to Friendly Cucamonga.

DATES TO REMEMBER:

UHS Teacher, Students Team Up To Create New Textbook

By Polly Picard

When a teacher writes a textbook, it isn't news—but when a teacher and his students team up to create a textbook for their schoolmates, that is indeed news.

For the past six years, Upland High School civics and citizenship teacher, David E. Peterson, searched for a textbook. He wanted a special kind of book for his sophomore citizenship classes.

To give his classes the materials they should have, he found that he needed at least eight books. So he began to read and sort vast stacks of textbooks, source books, and periodicals.

Peterson's senior civics classes learned of his search, and asked to help. So, as part of their course work, they were assigned projects on local history and background subject matter.

From this wealth of material, Peterson selected a few of the very best and these were included in the new textbook.

He chose these: City of Upland, Lynette Beckley and Linda O'Haver; Etiwanda, Donna Olsen and Betti Moore; The Community of Alta Loma, Sharon Lamb; History of Alta Loma, Barbara Murray; City of Cucamonga, Linda Casale; Cucamonga Wild Area, Linell Shropshire; Claremont City, Don Fendon.

The first section of the book contains informative material on the Declaration of Independence, the government of the United States, and the flag of the United States. Peterson also authored a simple explanatory outline of the Constitution and what it means to a citizen; and an easy-to-understand commentary on the California state government.

There is also a section devoted to citizenship — the growth of freedom, the beginning of America, and the responsibilities of a citizen.

The book was mimeographed by Miss Barbara Horak, a former student, and bound. Peterson estimates that the use of the book will save the District about $200 of textbook funds plus the saving in the purchase of periodicals.

There are now 100 copies of the book available, and they will be issued as regular textbooks.

For the next year, Peterson plans to revise and edit the book as he uses it in his teaching. He intends to submit it to a publisher when it is ready.

He feels that there is a definite shortage of good civics books on the sophomore level, and there should be a market for his text.

Certainly the students know that the book is their own, personal text, written by their friends and their teacher—and that makes it "pretty special."

Turn First Earth At New Alta Loma High School Site

More than 100 persons attended Friday afternoon groundbreaking ceremonies at the site of the future Alta Loma High School in spite of chilly breezes and few top coats.

School Board trustees, the architect and contractor took their turns at turning a spade of earth to signify the start of another district milestone. Construction was expected to begin Monday, March 19.

Superintendent Allan G. Smith, master of ceremonies at the event, introduced the trustees and speakers. Lively music and action were furnished by the Upland High School band, flag and baton twirlers.

Board President Benjamin Allen told the shivering audience that they were witnessing the beginning of another addition to our educational facilities and that the district was striving to provide the "best possible education for our children."

Trustee Charles Smith of Alta Loma said that perhaps sentiment and emotionalism were outdated, but that he was both sentimental and emotional at the beginning of the new school.

"Scholastically," Smith said, "this new school will be second to none in the state. Some of our graduates will no doubt participate in achievements that will stagger the imagination."

Architect J. Dewey Harnish expressed his pride in the coming new school and gave praise to his associate Jack Causey, the architect-in-charge of the new $3 million project.

Principal-elect of Alta Loma High, Burton Wiley, spoke to the audience on "Planning for the Future" and introduced Upland High School freshman, John Morris, who will be among the first graduating class from the new school in 1965.

"We'll be the first to do everything in this new school," Morris said. The lad spoke from rough notes having lost his written speech and never once faltered.

Superintendent Smith also introduced other trustees and officials of the three elementary districts the new high school will serve.

Rev. Keith Whitford, Alta Loma Community Church, gave the invocation and Rev. Raymond Moore, Cucamonga Community Methodist Church, offered the benediction.

INVESTIGATIVE REPORTS

By The

1961 County Grand Jury

The bulk of this report consists of reports on specific departments of the County organization by the various committees of the Grand Jury; this follows not only the pattern of previous Grand Jury reports, but also the way in which our work naturally arranged itself.

However, there are a number of items which either do not fall porperly within the scope of any committee, or which are applicable to several committees, or which merit setting out separately to give them special emphasis because of their critical importance. These are outlined below.

(1) The Grand Jury is required by law to have the books, records, and accounts of the County audited during its year of service and is empowered to employ experts to analyze the methods and systems used by the several offices of the County.

This Grand Jury considered that a thorough survey by a management consulting firm of the systems and procedures of most of the departments of the County was appropriate this year and employed the firm of Haskins and Sells to handle this phase of its work as well as to perform the annual audit.

Their "Report on Review of Records and Procedures Relating to the Financial Affairs of County Officers and Departments" dated October 27, 1961, consisting of 74 pages, contains a large number of recommendations for changes in procedures, equipment, forms, etc. These are specific, clearly and emphatically stated, and show evidence of careful study and analysis of the problems of the various departments.

Change always needs a champion.

Movements in both business and government that disturb routing, dilute authority, and eliminate papers and rules in which there is pride of creation or authority meet with defense and resistance.

Therefore, we urge the Board of Supervisors to set up the Systems and Procedures unit proposed by Haskins and Sells as a separate and independent unity responsible directly and only to the Board. We recommend that a highly qualified man be recruited from outside the present County administration to head this important unit.

It is our conviction that recommendations made by Haskins and Sells can cut costs of government, and also that adoption, modification, or relinquishment of recommendations should be on the advice of experts acting independently.

(2) One item of interest this year has been the discussion of whether special County service districts (school, water, sanitation, fire, flood control, lighting, park, etc.) should be charged by the County for the various services provided them by County departments. (Surveyor, Registrar of Voters, Tax Collector Public Works, etc.)

This Grand Jury recommends that they should be so charged, fairly and strictly.

The arguments against doing so are based ultimately upon the fact that the County as a whole has a greater tax base than any special district considered "free" in any sense.

The present system permits the districts to spread their annexation expenses, for example, across the entire County tax base, although this may appear to be a considerable economy to the district at the time, it really is only partly so because the taxpayers in that district must pay County taxes representing costs incurred for the benefit of other districts.

Furthermore, it is obvious that the present practice is a violation of the principle that a group desiring a special service should itself pay the costs of it. This principle is being violated and abandoned in far too many government activities; in this case, the Grand Jury urges a return to it as a sound and proper move To a larger extent, this would require action only by the Board of Supervisors, but it may well be that State legislation may be required to permit all such costs to be allocated as recommended; if so, this Grand Jury urges that such legislation be promoted.

(3) A further item of considerable importance this year came to light as a result of the Grand Jury's investigation of the annexation of a tract of land to a self-governing County water district.

It appeared that the County Counsel and County Registrar of Voters on the one hand disagreed with the attorneys for the water district on the other hand with respect to interpretation of the Water Code. Evidence developed during the investigation indicated that, if the County Counsel's interpretation was correct, the annexation probably was illegal.

The Code provides that, once an annexation ordinance has been adopted, "it is conclusive against all persons except the State upon suit by the Attorney General commenced within six months." Therefore, the Grand Jury laid its evidence in some detail before the Attorney General's Office and inquired whether it appeared to warrant further investigation by his office, and offered to cooperate in the investigation with its power to subpoena witnesses to testify under oath.

The Attorney General's Office, in replying, made it absolutely clear that it was not interested in cooperating with the Grand Jury in this investigation, and incomprehensibly stated that it was the function nor within the jurisdiction of the Office to answer such inquiries.

The reply further indicated that usual procedure in such matters called for interested land owners to apply to the Attorney General's Office for leave to sue in quo warranto in the name of the State. While it was admitted that the Attorney General has the inherent power to sue "upon his own information," he chooses to act only as a "screening" agency for cases brought by other public agencies or private parties at their own expense.

The Code provision in question undoubtedly was included to prevent harrassment of public entities by frivolous suits. However, the Grand Jury, should have been classed with the "usual" case, nor should it have been considered that it was even remotely possible that it might be frivolous.

In many case, the attitude of the Attorney General's Office, together with the provisions of the Water Code, left the Grand Jury powerless to proceed, and the matter had to be dropped regardless of the question of illegality and in spite of the fact that it was a purely intra-County problem.

It is evident that the present Attorney General is more concerned about protecting quasi-governmental agencies from any interference with their operations, even if the latter are apparently illegal, than in protecting or helping to protect private parties from violation of their rights by such agencies.

(4) The Grand Jury recommends that the County take the necessary legal steps to employ a County Manager, in the confident expectation that this type of organization would be more efficient and economical than the present arrangement.

(5) It was recommended in the 1960 Grand Jury Final Report that succeeding grand juries investigate city administrations on a routine bases.

We considered this and concluded that there was insufficient justification for expenditure of County funds for this purpose.

We notified those concerned that we were amenable to investigating any complaints of irregularity or inefficiency, whether in County, municipal, or special district administrations, in accordance with the Penal Code provisions. We believe this offers suficient protection to the city taxpayers, and we recommend to them that they take advantage of this situation whenever it seems indicated.

(6) Fire control and prevention must be considered one of the vital problems in our County.

If we wait until a fire denudes our watersheds and then rush to Washington for millions to build flood control projects that are necessary to protect life and property, we are "locking the door after the horse has been stolen."

Some of this money should be more available to prevent and supress fire, thus saving at least some of our watersheds; in so doing we would be conserving our water supply, which is wrapped up in our mountain slopes and is our most inexpensive source of find quality water.

Furthermore, when fire denudes our mountain slopes, it jeopardizes our recreational facilities, one of the major facets of our economy. Careful study of this problem by this County and other counties in similar situations, and representatives of the State and Federal forest services seems imperative.

(7) Much has been written regarding the deplorable situation in some aspects of this nation's welfare activity and particularly in California's.

We found no cause for criticism of this County's Welfare Department; State and Federal laws are dictating the policies.

There is every indication that unless an aroused public demands sound and fair welfare legislation, limited to bare necessities in benefits, we face a situation that could easily undermine our economy in the not-far-distant future.

(8) It is suggested that the

by Ragna Olausen

This year is passing all too quickly. Do you realize that next week is the last week in the third quarter? Ten weeks until summer! Can you believe it?

How many of you still have old clothes in your drawers or closets that are not usable for you or that do not fit or that you don't like. If there is such an article in your posession, you should be ashamed of yourselves.

Last week, Girl's League sponsored a drive to collect such clothing for a very worthy cause, to help the needy in the Mountains of Virginia. The attitude of the entire student body toward this drive was pitiful. What's happened to our fine Highland spirit of good will?

I honestly don't think that you neglected to bring the clothing because you didn't want to help some unfortunate people; you were just thoughtless and unconcerned. Certainly it was well publicised by your room representative.

Laziness is never a good excuse for not participating in any drive or activity. I'm afraid that many of our fellow Highlanders were guilty of this this time. Let's get on the ball.

I hope we never have such an ill showing again in any activity as we have had in this one. Remember, it was partly your fault.

I hope none of you showed up for the sports banquet last Thursday night, because it was postponed to this Thursday, due to interference with the program put on by the PE department. For sure, it will be held in the Cafeteria this Thursday night.

Speaking of that P.E. program, Fit as a Fiddle, congratulations to the teachers for doing such a fine job of getting the program together.

Many of you who know Bruce Zwissler will be interested to know that he is getting along fine in Lafayette, California, (near Oakland) but he misses good old Upland. He will be here for Easter.

The AFS-ASB talent show will be given in an assembly on this Thursday. On Friday, the public may come to the show. Let's have a good turnout for this event, and remember the purpose of the American Field Service.

How come there's been a pogo stick in Mr. Rischer's office? Surely this isn't how you spend your spare time, is it, Mr. Rischer?

This may sound familiar to those of you in band. During a recording session, a male voice was heard to say, "Hey Elliot, We're Recording!" Dwayne Patterson couldn't be the culprit, could he?

Congratulations to the Partheans Tri Hi Y (sophomores) for winning the trash can contest. Congratulations also to the honorable mention winners, the great Shanticons. I bet the Partheans can really find a use for that $15.

Two graduates of Upland High School in 1958 have really made good. They will graduate from college this year and both have received a Woodrow Wilson fellowship to attend graduate school and study to be college professors.

They are Linda Thompson of Pomona College, and Mike Zwettler of Notre Dame.

Speaking of college, Susan Groendyke recently received her acceptance from Fresno State where she plans to go next Year. Congratulations, Susan.

Beware of Terry Topolski! This Freshman is a campus litterbug. Not only that, he admits it. What are you going to do about that folks? I warn you—don't follow his example.

Gail Clayton is certainly a lucky girl. She was the recipient of a car for her birthday. No more transportation worries for you, Gail.

On Saturday, the annual Journalism Day activities will take place. Last Saturday, the Spanish students went on a field trip, and they reported lots of fun.

Keep Friday, March 30, in mind. There may be a swell activity going on at school. So, don't make plans until you hear about it for sure.

Our baseball team will play its next two games away and the tennis team will travel with them. On Friday, the game will be at Corona, and on Tuesday, at Bonita.

The track team will meet Corona on Friday at our field. You all come. Certainly we can afford to support home sports events! On Tuesday, they will compete in the Claremont Mudd Invitational.

Dear Mr. Hodell:

I wish to thank you for the publicity you have given the "Heart" campaign in your paper.

The result is very gratifying and the many dollars collected provide the key to research, by which so much has been accomplished in the past toward conquering this deadly enemy.

Sincerely,
Clara B. Price

Dear Editor:

I want to share with you several discoveries I have made since coming to Upland, concerning Upland College. I am certain you will be as surprised at I was at the quality of teachers, self help, fields of study and religious constituency.

Dr. John Z. Martin told me, before I was employed, that Upland College was working hard to be a "Community Centered, Service Institution." The record of progress toward that goal is being realized. No longer can anyone say that this institution is a single denomination school.

Take a few minutes to read this brochure — (The Real Upland College) — then pass it on to a friend. I am certain that people will gladly support Upland College with their friendship, influence and finances as soon as they realize the "real" Upland College.

Sincerely yours,
Dick Wray Richardson,
Vice President
Finance and Development

Dear Editor:

To write a descriptive letter telling of our trip is a bit difficult, because the average person is taken with shopping, the esthetics of a country, the people, etc. My basic interest is in National and International trends, economics, the "Common Market", education, etc.

I would observe that from Brussels on, the economy the last few years is definitely on the up. Brussels is a city of over 1,000,000 people — lots of merchandise in the stores, many new stores, many American cars on the streets — prices comparable to American prices. It seems to be expected that Brussels will be one of the centers of the "Common Market". Several new buildings have already been built and two other big office buildings are under construction for the "Common Market" offices.

In Amsterdam, many new apartment buildings are going up. There, the foundations of a building often cost as much as the building above the ground. Before the war, the banking clearings, as I understand it, were 5 million Gilders. Today, that figure is 300 million for the same given period. We were told that over 80 per cent of tourists coming to the Netherlands, come into Amsterdam.

Prices again are about the same as in the states, although there are some areas where it seems Paradoxs exist.

Today, Tuesday, we are leaving for Italy — to Florence and Rome and then returning through Switzerland. Also hope to visit around Vienna upon our return before going north to Copenhagen.

Sincerely,
Abner B. Haldeman

Comments From the SWIVEL CHAIR

by Glen Young

This is not the latest, but is typical of the 'monkey business that goes on in Washington.

There comes a report out of the wilderness of DC that our government is spending more than a million dollars to find out if and why a baby monkey loves his mother!

The National Institutes of Health, which operate under the Public Health Service, are going to spend 1,201,925 of the taxpayers hard-earned dollars for a monkey study to "the affectional relationship of the infant monkey to his mother.

This monkey business is being planned at a time when the public debt is near $300 billion.

Apparently Uncle Sam did't bother to ask certain authorities about this love of baby monkey for mother. According to authorities, baby monkeys cling to their mamas for several months before being separated by even a few inches.

A few phone calls to zoological curators would hardly cost the taxpayers a million bucks ... but then, our 'elected brains' in Washington seldom do things the easy way nor least expensive.

The government lives off the private economy, and not vice versa. Certainly, people must realize that the notion that greater spending in the so-called public sector is a means for increasing economic growth, is perhaps the greatest hoax of our time. Growth depends upon the availability of capital....from the savings of individuals and from the profits of industry. The more the government takes out of the economy, in taxes, the less there is left to build, renew and revitalize that economy.

This country's entire economic system is based upon the work of private enterprise ....which means private investment, private risk and private pioneering, under reasonable government regulation when it is necessary.

Over the years, this system has been sadly diluted as government has gone into many kinds of commercial business which is a needless burden on the taxpayers.

Now this artificial bolstering of the economy through federal aid of every description, is leading us down the path of ignorance to socialism. WE SIMPLY MUST DO SOMETHING ABOUT GOVERNMENT SPENDING. We must pay much more attention to the men and women who are being elected to represent us in government. We are too complacent about these people. We seem to believe that, because they're willing to 'sacrifice' (ha) their private lives,to be the people's servant, we should let them struggle with the problems.

Have you ever attended a session of congress to see how indifferent these 'public servants' are about many bills that come before the house or senate? This will amaze you.

The Tax Foundation points out that the 1963 fiscal year budget of $93 billion, highest in our peacetime history, works out to $508.33 for every man, woman and child in the nation.

As long as the people continue to ask for federal handouts, this trend will continue.

Gadabouts To Sponsor Teenage Dance

The Gadabouts Entertainer's group will sponsor a Teenage dance Saturday night March 24 in the American Legion Hall at Arrow Blvd. and Grove St. in Upland.

The Dance, which will begin at 8 p.m. and last until Midnight will be open to all teenagers of the area, it will feature the music of a well known rock and roll band to be announced later.

The dance may be the first in a series of monthly Teen Dances to be held at the Legion Hall. Darwin T. Harder, President of the Gadabouts group, said this week, that the group is now organizing Teen Dances throughout the Fontana, Upland, Pomona area.

He said that if the Saturday dance is successful and details of regular use of the hall can be worked out, the Gadabouts will organize a local Teen Dance club to plan and conduct the dance each month.

The Gadabouts is an organization of amateur and Semi-Professional entertainers who work to promote new talent and to provide entertainment for local civic and fraternal organizations.

Council Candidates Offer Their Views On Annexation

(Editor's Note: Five of the six candidates for the Upland City Council submitted answers to the question: 'How do you feel about annexation of property on the north, west and east of Upland?' For the voter's appraisal, their answers are given here.)

ABNER B. HALDEMAN

"My answer is that the cities today who have a phobia for annexation are creating future problems that are not necessary. There may be times when it would be wise to annex if future planning dictated that the obtaining of these industrial sites would be beneficial tax-wise as a supporting base for our schools and city operation."

"The San Bernardino County Planning Commission have recently issued a report showing the future population trends. As cities expand it is natural that their perimeters will gradually be absorbed. I emphasize the word 'gradually'. I do not think that we should actively hunt annexation."

A.M. 'MAX' HAWKINS

"Sometime soon the county territory between the western city limit and the San Antonio wash should be added to Upland. Then the washes to the east and west would make natural and permanent boundaries."

GERALD R. WILSON

"I feel that a careful study of the property surrounding Upland should be made to find out what property will be an asset and which property will be a liability to the city before any decision on annexation can be made. We want to annex only that property which will benefit the community."

WAYNE D. BLANTON

"I would like to see the property on the north, west and east sides of Upland annexed to the City of Upland. It would mean an increase in our city departments, especially the police and fire department, but these services are going to have to be enlarged for the new growth of our community anyway and would be a good economic move to annex, especially the property to the east and west of Upland. This would also keep other communities from coming in our back door."

Grand Jury —

County administration review and study the activities of the numerous special districts of the County.

If it appears practical to do so, it should be well to inquire into how economically and efficiently they are operating and even into whether certain ones are really justified.

San Bernardino County has more different kinds of such districts than any other county of the state.

One aspect of this is that in the first eleven months of 1961, there were 118 elections held, or more than one every three days.

On the other hand, it should be remembered during this study that the vast unincorporated area of our large county gives rise to more need for such districts and that many provide their taxpayers with services unobtainable in any other way.

We believe that much of the concern with which many view the multiplicity of special districts in this County would be alleviated if our recommendation above were adopted, so that special districts in this County would be alleviated if our recommendation above were adopted, so that special districts ceased to be burdens on the County taxpayers generally.

(9) This Grand Jury has been alarmed at the growing decentralization of County operations.

Branch offices continue to increase in number, and each of these tends to grow. Anyone who argues that a new or enlarged branch is needed in his area should remember that his success will set a precedent for other areas to ask for similar treatment and such proliferation will tend to increase taxes on his property as well as on all other property.

A commitment to add branch offices and expand expand County facilities or activity, once made, is not easily reversed. Such branches might become a heavy burden on taxpayers if made primarily to benefit people in outlying areas.

This Grand Jury believes such a branch office should be established if and only if careful study by County administration shows that it will reduce County costs, including amortization of building expenses, etc.

(10) The Grand Jury noted with satisfaction that the Board of Supervisors paid employees of the Machine Records and Registrar of Voters Departments the amounts due them for overtime worked in previous years.

In the former department the accumulation had become particularly serious; it was actually increasing turnover of employees and therefore was adding to County costs. However, it is understood that the decisions and that no long-term policy has been established.

While it is possible that the same situation may not recur for some time, it nevertheless seems that the Board should establish a firm policy with respect to compensation for overtime worked by employees of all County departments, which policy is designed to avoid any possibility of such recurrence. Uncompensated overtime should not be carried over from one year to another.

(11) It's well understood investigations represents the taxpayers of the County and has had as its goal a decrease in County expenditures.

Throughout this report there are recommendations for studies, more rigid controls, improved equipment, better reports, revised procedures, etc., all of which are aimed at eventual streamlining of operations and have economy as the ultimate objective.

Therefore, the attitude of this Grand Jury may be summarized in these matters as urging that changes should be made in order to accomplish improvements which will result in immediate tax savings.

Obviously the proper approach for the County administration to these problems should be to adopt first those proposals which offer the greatest return on the initial cost or "investment." This is especially true since we recognize that it will not be practical to implement all of these proposals in one year.

These General Remarks have been approved by the entire Grand Jury, as have each of the following committee reports and the preceding preface. On behalf of all of the Grand Jury, I commend this report to all concerned.

The 4 that goes around acting like a V-8 . . . . Tempest!

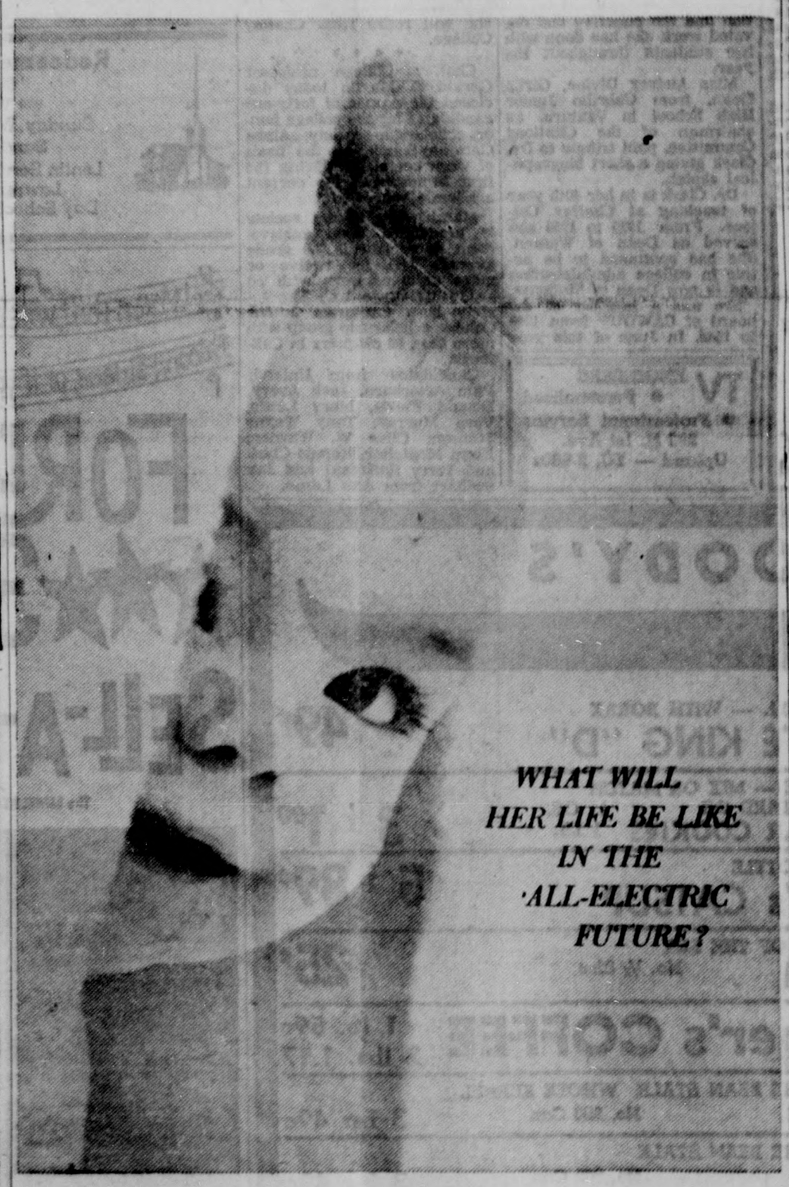

Used to be that people swore by V-8's and V-8's alone. And then along came Tempest's spunky 4 to steal their thunder. The hottest version* of this 4 (166 hp) puts out more horsepower than any other production 4 in the world. More torque too. And every version, standard 110 hp on up, is smooth and silent and effortless. About the only thing Tempest doesn't share with the big boys is its appetite for gasoline and spare parts. Try a drive in a Tempest 4 soon, hear? You might as well save while you're swinging!

Baldy View Installs New PTA Officers

The new officers of Baldy View P.T.A. were 'Corralled' at the March meeting for installation in their new offices. The humorous western theme used by Mrs. A. W. Stremmel, President of Foothill Council P.T.A., in conducting the installation was enjoyed by all.

The new officers are: Mrs. George Jayka, President; Mrs. William Magnuson, Vice President; Mrs. Dwight Bert, Recording Secretary; Mrs. Charles Yukesh, Corresponding Secretary; Mrs. J. T. Waller, Treasurer; Mrs. E. W. Dukes, Financial Secretary; Mrs. Russell Tieman, Historian; Mrs. William Thomas, Auditor; and Mrs. Boris Cherbak, Parliamentarian.

Mrs. George Jayka

Mrs. Jayka will be serving her second term as president of Baldy View P.T.A.

In keeping with the western theme a group of fifth and sixth grade boys and girls, under the direction of Mrs. Georgia Butts, entertained the audience with several square dance numbers.

The Mothersingers also sang several selections at this meeting.
